Now with the aid of a redesigned Website, they expect to be more accessible than ever to citizens throughout New York and New Jersey who have been victims of government abuse.

APRIL 11, 2007 (PRWEB) – The NYPD has in recent months come under close public and internal scrutiny regarding the practices of its officers, particularly incidents of aggression, brutality and unjust searches. Leventhal & Klein, LLP, headed by New York civil rights lawyers Jason Leventhal, Jr. and Brett H. Klein, has since 2004 handled numerous cases against local, state and federal law enforcement and government agencies. With the help of their redesigned Website at levklein.com, they aim to make their legal advice and services more accessible to the citizens of New York and New Jersey and to help fight the continuing trend of police abuse of power.

“Although the City of New York has experienced a dramatic decrease in crime in recent years, this has come at the expense of countless New Yorkers who have been the victims of aggressive and often discriminatory police practices,” explains Klein. “Leventhal & Klein is dedicated to vindicating the constitutional rights of those of who have suffered abuse by law enforcement officials.”

Partners Leventhal and Klein have acquired a powerful mix of experience that gives them a unique edge as New York civil rights lawyers. With resumes that include prosecutorial and defense positions with the City of New York and the Staten Island District Attorney's Office, they maintain an insider's knowledge of both sides of the law.

“Experience tells us that government agencies are reluctant to admit mistakes, and you can expect them to fight your claim at all costs,” says Leventhal, Jr. “The attorneys of Leventhal & Klein have the training, experience and know-how to take on local, state and federal law enforcement agencies.”
